WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1855.

TORNADO IN NEW YORK. — On Thursday night about 9 o'clock (says the New York Evening Post), a northwest rain storm suddenly came up, accompanied by a fierce wind. The rain poured down in torrents for five minutes, during which the buildings and shipping at Atlantic Docks, South Brooklyn, sustained considerable damage. Stores No. 58, 60, 62, and 68, occupied by the government, were stripped of their zinc roofing; the hoisting wheels in front of one or two of the stores were also blown away. The boiler and machine shop of Henry Esler & Co. was blown down. The door of the shop at the time was open, and the wind entered and filled the building. The air lifted the roof from the supports, and it fell over to the side of the boiler shop, carrying the latter with it to the ground. No one was hurt. The damage to building and work is estimated at $6,000. A candle factory was also blown down; the steam dredge boat Boston was badly damaged, and other injury was done. The Palmer Oil Works, a large new building at Red Hook, owned by Gwynne & Co., was struck by lightning, which tore the roof off, and soon afterwards the whole building was prostrated. This building was erected upon the ruins of one demolished by the tornado of April, 1853, and was a costly structure. The Composite Oil Works, on the same premises and belonging to the same proprietors, were also badly damaged.

Strange to say, there does not appear to have been any loss of life. The damage to property must exceed $100,000, which, so far as the shipping is concerned, is probably covered by insurance. The great proportion of the loss, however, is to the buildings.

TREMENDOUS STORM IN PHILADELPHIA. — On Friday afternoon, Philadelphia was visited by a violent thunder storm. Many of the streets were flooded to the depth of several feet; many of the cellars containing valuable goods were inundated before anything could be got out, and some of the culverts gave way. The laboratory of Power & Weightman, at the corner of Ninth and Parish streets, was inundated. The loss of this firm is about $15,000. Along Ninth and Tenth streets, in the neighborhood, the cellars all suffered more or less.

In Market street, near Fifth, Messrs. Samuel Hood & Co.'s cellar was filled. They had about seven feet of water in it. Messrs. Shaffer, Roberts, & Co., Hays & Zell, and others in the immediate vicinity, suffered considerably. The loss to these gentlemen will amount to several thousand dollars.

The cellar of the drug-store of Mr. C. C. Moore, at the northeast corner of Eighteenth and Vine streets, was completely filled. The water destroyed about $1,000 worth of goods here.

These are only a few of the damages to property.

EAST INDIA SQUADRON. — Advices have been received at the Navy Department from Commodore Joel Abbot, who commands this squadron, to the 3d of May, when the Macedonian, his flag-ship, was at Shanghai. She left Hong Kong on the 6th April, reaching Shanghai in fourteen days, beating the fast sailing American clipper ship Mandarin, although the latter had three days the start. The United States steam frigate Powhatan, Captain McCluney, was at Shanghai at the same date, bound in a short time to Hong Kong, touching at Amoy on her passage thither. The Vandalia, Commander Pipe, had been ordered to proceed to Guam, one of the Ladrone Islands, to make a rigid investigation into the truth of certain allegations of oppressive treatment by the Governor of Guam towards a portion of the passengers and crew belonging to the American bark Sarah Myers, wrecked on Raven Island.

SUNK AGAIN. — The old steamer Hermann, bound from St. Louis up the Missouri river, with a cargo of whisky, molasses, salt, &c., struck a snag on Friday night and sunk, nearly opposite St. Charles. The bow is sunk about ten feet deep, aft the water is not above the gunwale. The boat is either broken in two or in a fair way to become so, and will no doubt be a total loss. She is owned by Capt. Newkirk. This is about the third time this boat has been sunk, she is very old, and was of little account — say $3,000.

We cheerfully comply with a request to state that Mr. Oldham, son of Mrs. Oldham, of Grayson street, has fully recovered from his wounds. We do not now remember how or when Mr. O. was wounded.

A cowardly villain on Main street named Hartman offered personal violence yesterday to a sick man. We don't believe he would ever venture to attack a well one.

Bishop Andrews, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has arrived at New Orleans from California.

THE MONARCHS OF THE WOOD.

The brave old monarchs of the ancient wood!
For ages they have battled with the storm,
The envious clouds have pelted them with hail,
The lightning scathed them with its lurid lance,
And the fierce whirlwind wrenches them in its wrath.
As mortals, chastened by affliction's rod,
Grew firmer, at each trial, in the faith,
So these tall titans of the wilderness
Are stronger for their struggle with the storm.
When at their feet their predecessors fell,
Spring covered their remains with mourning moss,
And wrote their epitaph in pale weed-flowers,
And summer gave ripe berries to the birds
To stay and sing their sad sweet requiem.
These trees are thronged upon their fathers' graves,
And the same sun that warmed the ancestral stems,
Floods all the clouded wood with living light.

These stanzas are as sweet and airy as their subject:

TO A BUTTERFLY.

Butterfly, butterfly, happy are you,
Kissing the flowers and sipping the dew;
Bathing your wings in the Morn's rosy flush,
Folding them up in the Evening's cool hush:
When bright stars peep out through the beautiful sky,
To rest on the Rose's sweet bosom and die.

Butterfly, butterfly, sportive and gay,
Roaming from blossom to blossom all day,
Inhaling their sweets in a long sigh of bliss,
Thrilling and pure as a maiden's first kiss:
When zephyrs are bearing the lily's last sigh,
Then fold up your bright starry pinions and die.

FOR oh! it were meet for a life such as thine,
Beautiful type of a nature divine,
To die where the blossoms are fading to sleep,
And o'er them the night-dews in loneliness weep;
When the Nightingale's singing a soft lullaby
On the Rose's sweet bosom, oh, rest thee and die.

NEWS ITEMS.

A Fat Office. — The fees of the coroner of St. Louis for the month of June amounted to over $500. This is much more, however, than the usual average, the office being worth between $400 and $5,000 per annum.

The Washington Union states that the Secretary of State and Hon. Wm. L. Lee, his Hawaiian Majesty's Minister to our Government, on Friday signed a treaty of commercial reciprocity between the United States and the Sandwich Islands.

The New York Times learns by private letters from its Paris correspondent that the wife and youngest daughter of Buchanan Read, the American artist and poet, died of cholera in Florence during the early part of the present month.

The Snake Story a Humbug. — The New Hampshire Statesman says, on the authority of a neighbor of the Hill family, that the public are grossly imposed upon in this affair. Instead of there being a spontaneous and friendly feeling between the child and the reptile, there was the utmost repugnance between the two, at the time the father commenced his work. People there entertain no doubt whatever that he caught the snake some time ago; that he obtained it for the purpose of training the child to handle and control it; and that the exhibition of the two for money is the consideration had in view from the first by the inhuman parent. The assertion that Dr. Wright gave it as his opinion that a separation of the child and the snake would be fatal to the former, is a falsehood; there is no foundation whatever for it.

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal announces the death of Gen. Wm. A. Thornton, of Shelbyville, one of the oldest residents of the State. Gen. T. was well known throughout Illinois as a most accomplished and sterling gentleman, and has on several occasions held important trusts under the State government.

We learn that there has been quite a "skirmish" at Fort Smith. Shotguns, revolvers, clubs, etc., were quite freely used, and two men were killed. The citizens, of all stripes, were united in endeavoring to quell the disturbances, which certain men were indulging in most too freely, considering they were right under the guns of the fort. We have received no positive particulars. — Fayetteville (Ark.) Ind., July 14.

The city on Saturday afternoon was thrown into intense excitement by the appearance of a horse running at full speed up Main Cross, with a buggy attached, and (horrible sight!) a little girl fast between the front spring and the axle, her head hanging down, apparently striking the ground with every jump of the horse. In this position, her face covered with blood, she was carried from Depot street up Main Cross to Mulberry, down Mulberry to Second, up Second to Main, up Main to Fourth, down Fourth to Mulberry, thence along that street to the post office, where, coming in contact with a wagon, the buggy was demolished and the horse detached. The little girl was taken into Mr. Sidall's drug-store. Though terribly bruised, the only bones broken were one or two of her fingers. The spokes and fellows of one of the wheels were painted with blood during this fearful ride of nearly a mile and a half. To-day we learn the little girl is comfortable and likely to recover. Mrs. James Hillis, the mother, who was in the buggy, was thrown out and seriously hurt. Mr. B. Vawter, father of Mrs. Hillis, was also thrown out, but escaped without injury. A more heart-sickening sight was never seen in the city before. — Madison Courier.

HEMP. — The St. Louis Republican says:

Dispatches from points on the Missouri mention that the growing crop has suffered materially from various causes, and the prospect of an average yield is much lessened. Sales at the levee of 300 to 400 bales ranged from $100 to $110.

This is almost as grand as the roar of the North wind of the forest:

THE RIVER IS GETTING LOW.

The river is getting low. Last evening there were only 4 feet 10 inches water in the canal. The thermometer stood at 90. Last evening we had a slight sprinkling of rain.

The St. Louis Republican, of Monday, says:

The river at this point continues falling slowly. The officers of the Southerner report 8 feet at Goose Island, the worst place between this port and Cairo. The upper rivers continue falling, and boats are beginning to arrive from the Missouri with very light cargoes. There is about 44 feet on the bars to St. Joseph, and falling.

The steamer L. M. Kennett, bound down, was hard aground at Goose Island yesterday when the Southerner passed her.

THE KINNEY EXPEDITION.

The N. Y. Evening Post of Friday last says:

By an arrival at Boston yesterday we have another letter from our correspondent at Turk's Island. Col. Kinney expected to sail on the 4th after the celebration of American independence among the salt rakers, in what he deemed a suitable style. The schooner Palestine, had been partially chartered, but was found too small.

A correspondent of the Tribune writing from Mier, on the Mexican frontier, states that the battle about to be fought between the revolutionists and Gen. Woll, the Mexican commander at Matamoras, will be decisive, and throw all the frontier custom-houses into the hands of Caravajal and his party should they be successful. Woll is expected to be defeated, and has sent all his valuables across the river into Texas.

The revolutionists have 2,000 men and 8 pieces of artillery. They propose to form a confederation of the three Northern States, Tamaulipas, Coahuilla, and Nueva Leon.

OTTAWA, ILL., July 24.

The case in the supreme court of the people vs. Wadsworth et al., being a suit brought by the people of the State of Illinois against the securities of Julius Wadsworth, State agent of the late firm of Wadsworth & Sheldon, of New York, was decided this morning. The opinion of the court was delivered by Judge Caton, justice of the supreme court, and judgment was given.

The following points were decided: That the Governor was necessitated to employ the agency of others in the payment of the interest of the State bonds, and the appointment was entirely valid. That the Governor, having employed authority to make the appointments, had also authority to take a bond for the faithful performance of the duties of that agent. That the agent was the agent of the State and not of the Governor. That the appointment continued until specifically terminated, and that the bond was valid while the agency continued. The people of Illinois are a political corporation and authorized to sue. Suit was brought in the name of the people. The demurrer of the defendant to the declaration was overruled. The amount in the hands of Wadsworth unaccounted for is $132,000.

FURTHER BY THE CANADA. — We published yesterday an interesting summary of foreign news. We now add an extract from Gen. Peisser's account of the battle of the 18th:

I had chosen for my post the Lancaster battery, and it was thence I was to give the signal, by means of star rockets, for the general movement. Notwithstanding great difficulties in the ground, notwithstanding obstacles accumulated by the enemy, and although the Russians, decidedly informed of our projects, were on their guard and ready to repel the assault, I may be permitted to believe that if the attack could have been general and instantaneous along the whole extent of the line, if there had been suddenness and unity of action in the efforts of our brave troops, the object would have been attained. Unfortunately such was not the case, and an inconceivable fatality caused our failure.

I was still more than 1,000 metres from the spot where I was to give the signal when a brisk fusillade, mingled with grape shot, told me that the action had been seriously commenced toward the right. In fact, shortly before 3 o'clock, Gen. Mayran thought he saw my signal in a bomb, with its flaming fuse that had been fired off from the Brancion redoubt. He was informed, but to no purpose, of his mistake.

This brave and unfortunate General gave the order to commence the attack. The columns of Saury and de Failly dashed forward at once. The first rush was magnificent; but hardly had these heads of columns advanced when they were assailed by a shower of ball and grape.

This overwhelming grape came not merely from the works we wanted to carry, but from the enemy's steamers also, which arrived with full steam on, and maneuvered with equal good fortune and skill. We, however, must have inflicted some damage on them. This prodigious fire arrested the efforts of our troops. It became impossible for our soldiers to march forward, but not one made a single step to retreat. It was then that Gen. Mayran, twice hit already, was struck down by grape shot and compelled to give up the command of his division.

All this was the work of a moment, and Gen. Mayran had been already carried off the field of battle, when I gave the signal from the spot I had reached of the Lancaster battery. The other troops then engaged in order to support the premature movement of the division on the right. This valiant division, disengaged for an instant by the loss of its General, rallied promptly to the voice of General DeFailly. The troops engaged, supported by the 2d battalion of the 95th regiment of the line, and one battalion of the Voltigeurs of the Guard, under the orders of the brave Colonel Boudville, kept firm near a ridge, where the General placed them, and maintained their ground with intrepidity. In the mean time, being informed of this situation, which might become critical, I gave orders to General Regnault de Saint Jean d'Angely to send four battalions of the Voltigeurs of the Guard, taken from the general reserve, to the succor of this division. EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 25, 1855.

FINE FRUIT.—The present season has been eminently favorable to all the fruits grown in this climate, and our pomologists have cheering prospects of the most abundant crops ever produced in Kentucky. Our cultivators, among whom the right spirit has begun to prevail, are bestowing unusual labor and care upon their orchards and vineyards, and the result can hardly fail to be not only a larger production, but a decided improvement in the variety and quality of their fruits. Among our scientific horticulturists, we suppose our readers need hardly be told, the first rank is held by our friend Lawrence Young, Esq., whose unrivaled fruits have become objects of so much interest with the citizens of Louisville, and whose judgment, taste, and skill as a cultivator are known to all the pomologists in our country. We found time, a few days since, to visit his fine farm, and often as we had before seen his magnificent orchards and admired the perfection of his culture, we were never so much gratified and delighted by any previous visit. So far from relaxing in his labors, he is working harder than ever to bring his fruits to the highest state of perfection. It was plainly enough to be seen that the President of the Kentucky Horticultural Society has no idea of yielding the palm to any of his meritorious young competitors, worthily as many of them are striving for the honor. We found two of his men at work among his peach trees stripping off the superfluous fruit and removing the dead and the redundant branches so as to admit the air and sunshine to every ripening peach, and were told by Mr. Young that the operation had been going on in his orchards for two months and would continue a month longer. Such peaches and pears as we saw growing upon these trees it delights the eye to behold. Some of his pears, the Belle Lucrative and Flemish Beauty, in particular, have already attained a size fully equal to the ordinary growth of those fruits, and his Leopold, Grand Admirable, and Pavie Pomponne peaches give promise of even surpassing this season their former great reputation. This superiority is due quite as much to the thinning and pruning process, in which Mr. Y. is perfectly unrelenting, as to the care with which he plows and cultivates his grounds. His peach trees, compared with the trees commonly seen in the country, appeared nearly bare, but he assured us that many of them were still over-loaded and must be subjected to a further reduction of their burdens.

Mr. Young's crop of pears, this season, will be much the largest that he has ever yet produced. His trees have escaped entirely the blight which has been fatal to many pear trees in this neighborhood, and every tree in his extensive orchard appeared to us to be as full of fruit as it could bear. Nothing could exceed the luxuriance of his Seckle pears, the most luscious variety of that delicious family of fruits. The Bartletts also promise to be exceedingly fine, and in fact every species of fruit in his orchards, plums, apples, apricots, nectarines, peaches, and pears, all do credit to Mr. Young's skill as a cultivator.

As we were walking through his grounds he called our attention to a young plantation of pear trees, made last spring, in which, out of 160 plants, we did not see one that was not flourishing, and many of them were loaded with fruit.

We shall look with impatience for the appearance of these splendid fruits in our market and upon the tables of our Horticultural Society during the next few weeks.

RESUMPTION OF FELLOWES & CO. OF NEW ORLEANS.—It will be seen by our published dispatches from New Orleans that Messrs. Fellowes & Co., of that city, whose partial suspension in January last caused universal regret here, have resumed payment and will continue business as usual. As members of this firm had been honorably connected with the business of this city for a quarter of a century, enjoying during that entire period the full confidence of our people and the highest credit, we desire thus publicly to congratulate them on the happy solution of their financial difficulties. We remember that when the suspension of the house was announced the liabilities were estimated at from one million and a quarter to one and a half millions of dollars. The adjustment of so large a sum in so short a time, and during a period of singular financial embarrassment, argues strongly in favor of the ability of the management and the financial strength of the house.

We said yesterday that a person on Main street named Eastman (we had no idea who Eastman was) had attacked and beaten a sick man. The name of the gentleman who made the assault was not Eastman. We do not think that the assault was justifiable, but a good many of our old friends have come to us and fully satisfied us that the author of it has always sustained the character of an amiable, high-minded, and chivalric gentleman. Moreover he is and has always been a warm supporter of ours. Under these circumstances we wish to unsay whatever was personally offensive in our little paragraph of yesterday.

A Cure for the Headache.—A correspondent has kindly furnished the following receipt for the headache: "The present extreme heat of the summer has caused considerable debility in the nervous system, especially with the female sex, causing that most painful disease, headache. For its immediate relief, take a piece of red blotting-paper (such as is used in the public departments), fold four or five folds, in size sufficient to cover the whole of the part affected, dip it in a basin of ice water, and apply it, pressed close to the head. As it very readily absorbs water, it also eva. orates accordingly, and with the hand repeat the cold water—the paper remaining—every five minutes, and so on till the pain ceases, which will be, at the furthest time, half an hour. The great power of the paper is, that, in the evaporation of the wa. er, it absorbs the heat from the head, which results in quick relief. Depend upon it, this is no hoax."

THE RACE HORSE "FRANKFORT" SOLD.—P. S. Swigert, Esq., of Frankfort, sold, on Monday last, his fine four year old colt Frankfort, by imported Glencoe, out of Mary Morris, for the sum of five thousand dollars to Calvin Green, Esq., proprietor of the Broad Rock course, near the city of Richmond, Virginia. Frankfort has already started for his new home, where he is soon to run for a large stake of eight entries four mile heats.

Frankfort and Wild Irishman are brothers. Mr. Swigert is the owner of three half sisters of these famous horses, all out of Mary Morris—one by Grey Eagle, one by imported Envoy, and the other, a two year old, by imported Yorkshire. The two former have now both suckling filly colts by imported Glencoe equal to any in Kentucky for form and beauty.

THE PHILADELPHIA SLAVE CASE.—The telegraph a few days ago mentioned the kidnapping of three slaves from their owner at Philadelphia. He was the Hon. John H. Wheeler, of North Carolina, American Minister to Nicaragua, and he, accompanied by his slaves, had taken a steamer at Philadelphia for New York, from whence he intended to proceed on his mission. A preacher named Passmore Williamson went on board of the steamer, and, by the aid of several negroes, ran the slaves off. Williamson was brought before Judge Kane, of the U. S. district court, before whom Mr. Wheeler, claimant of the slaves, testified as follows:

I took the five o'clock boat, and proceeded to the hurricane deck, accompanied by my servants; there were a few persons only there; several ladies; while there the defendant, Passmore

Williamson, stepped up to me, and asked me to allow him to have some conversation with my servants; I told him if he had anything to say he could say it to me; he laid his hands on the woman's shoulder very pointedly, and said, "do you know that you are in a free State, and have only to go ashore to be free?" I told him they knew where they were going and with whom; the defendant said to me that he did not want to hear me talk, but would hear the woman; he asked her if she was a slave; she replied yes; he just step on shore and you are free; he pulled her by the arm, when she and her boys began to cry, and said they wanted to go with their master; several gentlemen stepped up and interfered; two negroes caught me by the collar, one on each side; one of them said to me, if you draw a weapon or make any resistance, I will cut your throat from ear to ear; a gentleman, who appeared to be a traveler, stepped up and told the negroes to release me; they did so; the defendant and they forced my servants on shore, and hurried them away; then the gentleman interfered; I told them that I was in a country of laws, and that it could protect me in my person and property; I followed after them; they took my servants around in a street, with a broad space (Dock street), where a hack was in waiting, and they forced them into it; I asked the defendant what they were going to do with my servants; he replied, that he would be responsible for any claim that I might have against the servants; he gave me his name as Passmore Williamson; I saw a policeman standing near, and I stepped up to him and asked him to take notice what was doing and who were the persons; the defendant stepped up to the officer and whispered something in his ear, when the officer replied, that he would have nothing to do with catching slaves; I told him that I didn't want him to catch slaves, but only wanted him to take notice.

The testimony being closed, Mr. Vandyke said that he had two motions to make; first, an attachment against the defendant for making an insufficient return; and, second, that he be held to answer for wilful and malicious perjury. Mr. Vandyke urged his motion with argument, after quoting the act of Congress of 1825.

Judge Kane said, that the case was of grave a character, and the consequences so great to the defendant, that he was desirous, before pronouncing an opinion, to take time to consider and examine the matter. In the meantime, the defendant must enter bail in the sum of $5,000 on the motion to hold him for perjury, to appear on next Monday morning for a further hearing, at which time he would deliver a written opinion upon the subject. The motion for an attachment for contempt will go over, and be disposed of at the same time. There appears to have been a preconcerted operation.

A RUSSIAN PRISONER.—An army surgeon writes to the Kilkenny Moderator, on the 11th, from before Sebastopol:

On the 7th, a little hop-o'-my-thumb of a soldier made prisoner a Russian officer, whom he conducted with much pride to the first parallel, the officer overtopping the little man's musket and bayonet. I asked the Russian if he spoke French; he shook his head and said, "no speak;" but he exclaimed "doctor, doctor." I made signs that I was one, and he then took off his coat, when I found that he had a bullet wound at the back of his neck. He now tried to make himself understood by talking Latin. Pointing to the wound in his neck, he asked, "Mortal est!" When I told him it was not mortal, he pressed me by the hand, and said, "Pater mater soror suni nisihi." He said he was a Lieutenant of the 7th Dnieper Regiment. When he saw me open my case for a bandage to dress his wound, he thrust his hand into one of his own coat pockets, and produced his own for that purpose. All the Russian soldiers, very wisely, carry these things about with them.

FROM RED RIVER.—Last week a party from the Selkirk settlement, arrived here in company with Mr. Green. These are mostly families who have come for the purpose of settling here, having become tired of the frequent annoyances and losses sustained by them from the Sioux. They represent the settlement at Pembina to be in a perilous situation, and that many of the outside settlers have been obliged to abandon their homes and cross over into the British settlement in order to be protected from Indian incursions. Many whites have been killed and a large number of horses and cattle run off during the past winter and spring. The people in that remote settlement have asked the Government for help and protection, repeatedly, and during the last session of Congress it was promised, but nothing has been done to afford them immediate relief. The party came via Crow Wing and St. Paul, to this place. A large train was to have started about the same time for this point, and they are anxiously looked for daily.

AN AMERICAN IN SEBASTOPOL.—Dr. W. R. Whitehead, an American surgeon in employ of the Russians, writes from Sebastopol to Prof. Smith, of the Virginia Military Institute:

SEBASTOPOL, Saturday, April 14, 1855.

I am in the Imperial service of Russia, as military physician and surgeon. I am indebted to Prince Gortschakoff for the peculiar advantages that I enjoy as to rank, &c.—S. R. erior Physician of a regiment of 5,000 men "Stachli Ordinator"—rank between that of Major and Lieutenant Colonel. I am at present attached to one of the large hospitals at Sebastopol. After having graduated in medicine at the University of Penn., I left the United States for France. Upon my arrival in Paris I entered immediately upon the practical study of medicine. I remained in Paris about one year and three months; left Paris for Vienna last fall; remained in Vienna three months, and then left for Russia. I have been in Russia four months—one month at Sebastopol.

Sebastopol still remains. The English and French have made no progress yet toward taking it. Since my arrival here several sorties have been effected by the Russians with marked success, though they have always lost a considerable number. The allies have been bombarding the city for the last five days, and caused a great deal of damage, but it has been dreadfully paid for by the batteries of the allies are now nearly silent, and those of the Russians stronger than ever. The Russians are concentrating troops about Sebastopol. Events have proved that the English soldier is much inferior to either the French or Russian, and that with certain exceptions the Russian is as good as the French. Sebastopol will never be taken—it may be blown up by the Russians. I have enjoyed a fine opportunity of performing surgical operations, and must remain at the ambulance to-night, because the Russians intend making a sortie. I have very little time at present to write.

With every consideration, &c., your friend,
W. R. WHITEHEAD.
